

Foreign Items.

We gather from the northern papers, and from our foreign files, the following additional items of intelligence brought by the Britannia:

ENGLAND.—The parliamentary business of the session is rapidly drawing to a close. London is all but deserted by the great world. The commencement of the shooting, on Wednesday last, nearly completed the desertion, and the few stragglers about St. James's Palace hardly suffice to wind up, with becoming dignity and grace, the fig-end of one of the most extraordinary sessions on record.

On Monday night the House of Lords read for the third time, and passed, the Sugar Bill.

A protest has been drawn up and signed by Lords Brougham, Ashburton, Beaumont, and the Bishop of Oxford against the passage of the Sugar Bill.

The encouragement of the African slave trade is the principal ground of dissent. The bill passed the House of Lords on the night of the 17th, and was to go into operation forthwith.

The destination of Ireland consequent on the failure of the potato crop, occupied the attention of the House of Commons on Monday. Lord John Russell is known to have been in favor of a permanent loan of £2,500,000 has been expended on the relief of the Irish last year, which £1,841,551 was either repaid or will be repaid.

The potato blight is general. East, west, north, south, the cry is "still it comes." In Ireland the devastation is general. Every where the root is rotten, or towards decay.

A letter from the United States, dated the 25th of the month, which speaks fully of the potato blight in the present season, which would inevitably have been repeated in the next.

Amongst the proofs which the new government is giving of its wish to conciliate the Irish people, may be mentioned the fact that the repeal agitators, who were deprived of their commissions on account of their politics during the administration of Mr. Peel, and to whom a pardon is a highly politic, and what is more, a judicious step.

POTATOES, COALS, AND WHEAT.—The state of the potato crop has already influenced the price of grain. At Liverpool, wheat advanced from 6d. to 6d. per 20 pounds.

The anticipated total failure of the potato crop in England, Ireland, and Scotland, has caused the price of Indian corn to rise from 3s. to 3s. 2d. a quarter during the last three weeks.

A French paper states that the manufacture of the beet sugar, the present year, surpasses to a remarkable extent that of any previous year.

THE WIFE OF TWO HUSBANDS.—A man named Stark, one day went to water his master's horse, a short distance from town, when a party of Carlist forces were passing, and he made his presence known.

THE POLISH PRISONERS, which the King of Prussia had the dastardly covarice to deliver up to Russia, after they had been promised security of their lives in case of surrender, have almost instantly been cut to death.

RAILROADS IN GERMANY.—Letters from Hamburg state that the number of laborers on the Railroad from that city to Ebn, which has been 9000, is now increased to 10,000, and the work is carried on day and night without any interruption.

Several towns have petitioned the Pope to withdraw from the Jesuits the monopoly of education, which they have hitherto enjoyed.

But, says Polk, no. I must fight, I must expel a pest.—Lyon Journal.

THE WHIGS own a phrase and use it until it becomes ridiculous, like every thing they touch, and then they attribute it to the Democrats.

The Right Spirit in New York.

We find in the New York papers a full account of the Democratic Convention held at Tammany last Wednesday evening, to express and embody the sentiments of the New York democracy in relation to the important measures of the administration passed at the last session of Congress.

How potent is the rebuke which this great demonstration administered to that spirit of misrepresentation which is now falsely asserting that the great measures of the last Congress are of a sectional character, and receive only a sectional support.

A HUSBAND'S VENGEANCE.—A man by the name of Raucher, living at Montross, France, has been condemned to the galleys for a crime of singular ferocity. He was a man of warm and generous qualities, and had conceived a strong friendship for a man named Vaudin.

THE PROPRIETOR of the house famous in the love-legend of Ahabard and Heloise as their dwelling, on the quay Napoleon, had, it appears, lately determined on its demolition, and the work had even proceeded down to the first story, when it was suspended in consequence of some proposals made by a person intent on preserving this historic habitation.

Amongst the curiosities recently discovered in the ruins of ancient Nineveh, are winged lions, twelve feet high, which, though buried for thousands of years under the sand, now come forth as if they had just left the hand of an accomplished sculptor, with a delicacy of finish which speaks fully of the advancement of the arts among the old Assyrians.

THE EMPEROR AND THE GOLD FISHES.—A foreign correspondent of the New Sun, relates the following anecdote of the Emperor of Austria—the same high prince who so recently appeared passively to regard the dreadful butchery in Galicia.

Not long since, the distinguished traveller, Baron Hugel, prepared a magnificent exhibition of flowers, at his Villa at Hitzing. The Emperor of Austria, the great patron and protector of all and every thing, was of course the first of those invited to examine this rare collection of flowers.

THE REV. MR. WILSON, a Catholic clergyman, was recently called to a halt while out on a hunting excursion near Taunton, Mass., a few days since. Some doubts are entertained of his recovery.

A NEW ROMAN CATHOLIC Church, just erected at Chelmsote, was consecrated to the service of Almighty God, with the usual impressive ceremonies, on the 25th ultimo.

THE AMERICAN BOARD of Missions has about one hundred mission establishments at prominent points of civilization throughout the globe, and its receipts for the past year have exceeded $240,000.

A WHITE DEPARTURE AND A HUSBAND AND WIFE, are the subjects of a singular and interesting story, which we have had the pleasure to read in our issue of the 10th inst.

A BAP WATER.—The Duchess of Sutherland, who has lately been called to the office of Mistress of the Robes to the Queen of England, occupied this position some years since, and a singular anecdote, not generally known, is attached to her leaving it.

A LITTLE SCENE of a similar character passed not long since, says a legitimate journal, at New York. A Princess who had learned from her tutor all the value of the crown jewels, and all the duties of a queen, was one day in a carriage with her ladies, and accompanied her, reproached her for her want of punctuality, with no want of manner of the greatest displeasure, and added—"I thought I had given you a watch that never varied."

THE WIFE OF TWO HUSBANDS.—A man named Stark, one day went to water his master's horse, a short distance from town, when a party of Carlist forces were passing, and he made his presence known.

A BAP WATER.—The Duchess of Sutherland, who has lately been called to the office of Mistress of the Robes to the Queen of England, occupied this position some years since, and a singular anecdote, not generally known, is attached to her leaving it.

STOCKHOLM, June 5.—About one thousand persons will sail this month from Gelfo and Stockholm. These emigrants may be regarded as a fair specimen of the better class of Swedish peasants, and some are men of property.

STOCKHOLM, June 5.—About one thousand persons will sail this month from Gelfo and Stockholm. These emigrants may be regarded as a fair specimen of the better class of Swedish peasants, and some are men of property.

STOCKHOLM, June 5.—About one thousand persons will sail this month from Gelfo and Stockholm. These emigrants may be regarded as a fair specimen of the better class of Swedish peasants, and some are men of property.

STOCKHOLM, June 5.—About one thousand persons will sail this month from Gelfo and Stockholm. These emigrants may be regarded as a fair specimen of the better class of Swedish peasants, and some are men of property.

The Right Spirit in New York.

We find in the New York papers a full account of the Democratic Convention held at Tammany last Wednesday evening, to express and embody the sentiments of the New York democracy in relation to the important measures of the administration passed at the last session of Congress.

How potent is the rebuke which this great demonstration administered to that spirit of misrepresentation which is now falsely asserting that the great measures of the last Congress are of a sectional character, and receive only a sectional support.

A HUSBAND'S VENGEANCE.—A man by the name of Raucher, living at Montross, France, has been condemned to the galleys for a crime of singular ferocity. He was a man of warm and generous qualities, and had conceived a strong friendship for a man named Vaudin.

THE PROPRIETOR of the house famous in the love-legend of Ahabard and Heloise as their dwelling, on the quay Napoleon, had, it appears, lately determined on its demolition, and the work had even proceeded down to the first story, when it was suspended in consequence of some proposals made by a person intent on preserving this historic habitation.

Amongst the curiosities recently discovered in the ruins of ancient Nineveh, are winged lions, twelve feet high, which, though buried for thousands of years under the sand, now come forth as if they had just left the hand of an accomplished sculptor, with a delicacy of finish which speaks fully of the advancement of the arts among the old Assyrians.

THE EMPEROR AND THE GOLD FISHES.—A foreign correspondent of the New Sun, relates the following anecdote of the Emperor of Austria—the same high prince who so recently appeared passively to regard the dreadful butchery in Galicia.

Not long since, the distinguished traveller, Baron Hugel, prepared a magnificent exhibition of flowers, at his Villa at Hitzing. The Emperor of Austria, the great patron and protector of all and every thing, was of course the first of those invited to examine this rare collection of flowers.

THE REV. MR. WILSON, a Catholic clergyman, was recently called to a halt while out on a hunting excursion near Taunton, Mass., a few days since. Some doubts are entertained of his recovery.

A NEW ROMAN CATHOLIC Church, just erected at Chelmsote, was consecrated to the service of Almighty God, with the usual impressive ceremonies, on the 25th ultimo.

THE AMERICAN BOARD of Missions has about one hundred mission establishments at prominent points of civilization throughout the globe, and its receipts for the past year have exceeded $240,000.

A WHITE DEPARTURE AND A HUSBAND AND WIFE, are the subjects of a singular and interesting story, which we have had the pleasure to read in our issue of the 10th inst.

A BAP WATER.—The Duchess of Sutherland, who has lately been called to the office of Mistress of the Robes to the Queen of England, occupied this position some years since, and a singular anecdote, not generally known, is attached to her leaving it.

A LITTLE SCENE of a similar character passed not long since, says a legitimate journal, at New York. A Princess who had learned from her tutor all the value of the crown jewels, and all the duties of a queen, was one day in a carriage with her ladies, and accompanied her, reproached her for her want of punctuality, with no want of manner of the greatest displeasure, and added—"I thought I had given you a watch that never varied."

THE WIFE OF TWO HUSBANDS.—A man named Stark, one day went to water his master's horse, a short distance from town, when a party of Carlist forces were passing, and he made his presence known.

A BAP WATER.—The Duchess of Sutherland, who has lately been called to the office of Mistress of the Robes to the Queen of England, occupied this position some years since, and a singular anecdote, not generally known, is attached to her leaving it.

STOCKHOLM, June 5.—About one thousand persons will sail this month from Gelfo and Stockholm. These emigrants may be regarded as a fair specimen of the better class of Swedish peasants, and some are men of property.

STOCKHOLM, June 5.—About one thousand persons will sail this month from Gelfo and Stockholm. These emigrants may be regarded as a fair specimen of the better class of Swedish peasants, and some are men of property.

STOCKHOLM, June 5.—About one thousand persons will sail this month from Gelfo and Stockholm. These emigrants may be regarded as a fair specimen of the better class of Swedish peasants, and some are men of property.

STOCKHOLM, June 5.—About one thousand persons will sail this month from Gelfo and Stockholm. These emigrants may be regarded as a fair specimen of the better class of Swedish peasants, and some are men of property.

The Right Spirit in New York.

We find in the New York papers a full account of the Democratic Convention held at Tammany last Wednesday evening, to express and embody the sentiments of the New York democracy in relation to the important measures of the administration passed at the last session of Congress.

How potent is the rebuke which this great demonstration administered to that spirit of misrepresentation which is now falsely asserting that the great measures of the last Congress are of a sectional character, and receive only a sectional support.

A HUSBAND'S VENGEANCE.—A man by the name of Raucher, living at Montross, France, has been condemned to the galleys for a crime of singular ferocity. He was a man of warm and generous qualities, and had conceived a strong friendship for a man named Vaudin.

THE PROPRIETOR of the house famous in the love-legend of Ahabard and Heloise as their dwelling, on the quay Napoleon, had, it appears, lately determined on its demolition, and the work had even proceeded down to the first story, when it was suspended in consequence of some proposals made by a person intent on preserving this historic habitation.

Amongst the curiosities recently discovered in the ruins of ancient Nineveh, are winged lions, twelve feet high, which, though buried for thousands of years under the sand, now come forth as if they had just left the hand of an accomplished sculptor, with a delicacy of finish which speaks fully of the advancement of the arts among the old Assyrians.

THE EMPEROR AND THE GOLD FISHES.—A foreign correspondent of the New Sun, relates the following anecdote of the Emperor of Austria—the same high prince who so recently appeared passively to regard the dreadful butchery in Galicia.

Not long since, the distinguished traveller, Baron Hugel, prepared a magnificent exhibition of flowers, at his Villa at Hitzing. The Emperor of Austria, the great patron and protector of all and every thing, was of course the first of those invited to examine this rare collection of flowers.

THE REV. MR. WILSON, a Catholic clergyman, was recently called to a halt while out on a hunting excursion near Taunton, Mass., a few days since. Some doubts are entertained of his recovery.

A NEW ROMAN CATHOLIC Church, just erected at Chelmsote, was consecrated to the service of Almighty God, with the usual impressive ceremonies, on the 25th ultimo.

THE AMERICAN BOARD of Missions has about one hundred mission establishments at prominent points of civilization throughout the globe, and its receipts for the past year have exceeded $240,000.

A WHITE DEPARTURE AND A HUSBAND AND WIFE, are the subjects of a singular and interesting story, which we have had the pleasure to read in our issue of the 10th inst.

A BAP WATER.—The Duchess of Sutherland, who has lately been called to the office of Mistress of the Robes to the Queen of England, occupied this position some years since, and a singular anecdote, not generally known, is attached to her leaving it.

A LITTLE SCENE of a similar character passed not long since, says a legitimate journal, at New York. A Princess who had learned from her tutor all the value of the crown jewels, and all the duties of a queen, was one day in a carriage with her ladies, and accompanied her, reproached her for her want of punctuality, with no want of manner of the greatest displeasure, and added—"I thought I had given you a watch that never varied."

THE WIFE OF TWO HUSBANDS.—A man named Stark, one day went to water his master's horse, a short distance from town, when a party of Carlist forces were passing, and he made his presence known.

A BAP WATER.—The Duchess of Sutherland, who has lately been called to the office of Mistress of the Robes to the Queen of England, occupied this position some years since, and a singular anecdote, not generally known, is attached to her leaving it.

STOCKHOLM, June 5.—About one thousand persons will sail this month from Gelfo and Stockholm. These emigrants may be regarded as a fair specimen of the better class of Swedish peasants, and some are men of property.

STOCKHOLM, June 5.—About one thousand persons will sail this month from Gelfo and Stockholm. These emigrants may be regarded as a fair specimen of the better class of Swedish peasants, and some are men of property.

STOCKHOLM, June 5.—About one thousand persons will sail this month from Gelfo and Stockholm. These emigrants may be regarded as a fair specimen of the better class of Swedish peasants, and some are men of property.

STOCKHOLM, June 5.—About one thousand persons will sail this month from Gelfo and Stockholm. These emigrants may be regarded as a fair specimen of the better class of Swedish peasants, and some are men of property.

The Right Spirit in New York.

We find in the New York papers a full account of the Democratic Convention held at Tammany last Wednesday evening, to express and embody the sentiments of the New York democracy in relation to the important measures of the administration passed at the last session of Congress.

How potent is the rebuke which this great demonstration administered to that spirit of misrepresentation which is now falsely asserting that the great measures of the last Congress are of a sectional character, and receive only a sectional support.

A HUSBAND'S VENGEANCE.—A man by the name of Raucher, living at Montross, France, has been condemned to the galleys for a crime of singular ferocity. He was a man of warm and generous qualities, and had conceived a strong friendship for a man named Vaudin.

THE PROPRIETOR of the house famous in the love-legend of Ahabard and Heloise as their dwelling, on the quay Napoleon, had, it appears, lately determined on its demolition, and the work had even proceeded down to the first story, when it was suspended in consequence of some proposals made by a person intent on preserving this historic habitation.

Amongst the curiosities recently discovered in the ruins of ancient Nineveh, are winged lions, twelve feet high, which, though buried for thousands of years under the sand, now come forth as if they had just left the hand of an accomplished sculptor, with a delicacy of finish which speaks fully of the advancement of the arts among the old Assyrians.

THE EMPEROR AND THE GOLD FISHES.—A foreign correspondent of the New Sun, relates the following anecdote of the Emperor of Austria—the same high prince who so recently appeared passively to regard the dreadful butchery in Galicia.

Not long since, the distinguished traveller, Baron Hugel, prepared a magnificent exhibition of flowers, at his Villa at Hitzing. The Emperor of Austria, the great patron and protector of all and every thing, was of course the first of those invited to examine this rare collection of flowers.

THE REV. MR. WILSON, a Catholic clergyman, was recently called to a halt while out on a hunting excursion near Taunton, Mass., a few days since. Some doubts are entertained of his recovery.

A NEW ROMAN CATHOLIC Church, just erected at Chelmsote, was consecrated to the service of Almighty God, with the usual impressive ceremonies, on the 25th ultimo.

THE AMERICAN BOARD of Missions has about one hundred mission establishments at prominent points of civilization throughout the globe, and its receipts for the past year have exceeded $240,000.

A WHITE DEPARTURE AND A HUSBAND AND WIFE, are the subjects of a singular and interesting story, which we have had the pleasure to read in our issue of the 10th inst.

A BAP WATER.—The Duchess of Sutherland, who has lately been called to the office of Mistress of the Robes to the Queen of England, occupied this position some years since, and a singular anecdote, not generally known, is attached to her leaving it.

A LITTLE SCENE of a similar character passed not long since, says a legitimate journal, at New York. A Princess who had learned from her tutor all the value of the crown jewels, and all the duties of a queen, was one day in a carriage with her ladies, and accompanied her, reproached her for her want of punctuality, with no want of manner of the greatest displeasure, and added—"I thought I had given you a watch that never varied."

THE WIFE OF TWO HUSBANDS.—A man named Stark, one day went to water his master's horse, a short distance from town, when a party of Carlist forces were passing, and he made his presence known.

A BAP WATER.—The Duchess of Sutherland, who has lately been called to the office of Mistress of the Robes to the Queen of England, occupied this position some years since, and a singular anecdote, not generally known, is attached to her leaving it.

STOCKHOLM, June 5.—About one thousand persons will sail this month from Gelfo and Stockholm. These emigrants may be regarded as a fair specimen of the better class of Swedish peasants, and some are men of property.

STOCKHOLM, June 5.—About one thousand persons will sail this month from Gelfo and Stockholm. These emigrants may be regarded as a fair specimen of the better class of Swedish peasants, and some are men of property.

STOCKHOLM, June 5.—About one thousand persons will sail this month from Gelfo and Stockholm. These emigrants may be regarded as a fair specimen of the better class of Swedish peasants, and some are men of property.

STOCKHOLM, June 5.—About one thousand persons will sail this month from Gelfo and Stockholm. These emigrants may be regarded as a fair specimen of the better class of Swedish peasants, and some are men of property.

VOICE OF THE PEOPLE SUGAR COATED VEGETABLE PILLS. THE IMPROVED Indian Vegetable Pills. (MADE BY) BURLINGAME, BOSTON, U.S.A.

For the cure of Fevers, Jaundice, Dyspepsia, Indigestion, Constipation, Flatulency, Headache, Rheumatism, Stomachic, Biliousness, Heart, Appetite, Worms, Coughs and Asthma, Liver Complaint, Excessive Drinking, Excess of Chills, Female Complaints, and all Diseases that arise from a bilious or impure state.

THE PILLS which I received from you have given me such a powerful effect, that I feel it necessary to state to you that I have never before experienced such a powerful effect.

Extract from a letter from the Hon. J. M. McKim, dated New York, 18th March, 1855.

Extract from a letter from the Hon. J. M. McKim, dated New York, 18th March, 1855.

Extract from a letter from the Hon. J. M. McKim, dated New York, 18th March, 1855.

Extract from a letter from the Hon. J. M. McKim, dated New York, 18th March, 1855.

Extract from a letter from the Hon. J. M. McKim, dated New York, 18th March, 1855.

Extract from a letter from the Hon. J. M. McKim, dated New York, 18th March, 1855.

Extract from a letter from the Hon. J. M. McKim, dated New York, 18th March, 1855.

Extract from a letter from the Hon. J. M. McKim, dated New York, 18th March, 1855.

Extract from a letter from the Hon. J. M. McKim, dated New York, 18th March, 1855.

Extract from a letter from the Hon. J. M. McKim, dated New York, 18th March, 1855.

Extract from a letter from the Hon. J. M. McKim, dated New York, 18th March, 1855.

Extract from a letter from the Hon. J. M. McKim, dated New York, 18th March, 1855.

Extract from a letter from the Hon. J. M. McKim, dated New York, 18th March, 1855.

Extract from a letter from the Hon. J. M. McKim, dated New York, 18th March, 1855.

Extract from a letter from the Hon. J. M. McKim, dated New York, 18th March, 1855.

Extract from a letter from the Hon. J. M. McKim, dated New York, 18th March, 1855.